WHAT'S YOUR WISH FOR WATER?

Dear Barbara,

You've heard us say it before: we all deserve clean, safe water. You know there are overwhelmingly complex and serious water issues we face in Wisconsin. But there is hope, and there is much hard work being done to help protect our groundwater, lakes, rivers and wetlands.

Over the next several weeks, we'll share information about four specific water issues and introduce you to Anita Adams, Aurora Conley, Susan Connor and Barb Gifford. They are citizens from across the state seeing first hand the negative impacts of manure runoff, groundwater contamination and depletion, frac sand mining and iron mining. They'll inspire you with the work they're doing to fight back and protect our waters as they are showcased in a series of TV spots set to air around the state throughout the next several weeks.

As you listen to their stories, consider and share your wish for the future of water in Wisconsin. Is your wish for clean drinking water, free from manure runoff or the contaminants produced by mining? Is it rivers and lakes free from the danger of running dry? Is it watching kids and dogs happily playing on a beach and splashing in clean water? Is it an open and transparent political process that makes fair and reasonable decisions about water?

Use the resources here to read about these issues and check our easy-to-use guide to see if your legislator is acting in a way that would help make your wish a reality.

But wishing alone does not equal action. We ask you to connect with us on Facebook and Twitter using the tag #wish4waterWI. Tell us your wish for water! Share it, repeat it and ask others to do the same. Make sure you and your friends are getting the most up to date information on these issues by updating your contact information with us. Then, call, write or visit your elected officials to make your voice, and your wish, heard.
